

New Website Helps Consumers Find Local Health and Wellness Providers

Wellclicks, a new online health and wellness company, launched its website wellclicks.com this summer. The website contains detailed profiles of health and wellness providers to help consumers find a health match based on their personal needs. Interested in acupuncture? Want to get in shape? Need a new doctor? Check out the local options in chiropractic, eye care, fitness, primary care, massage therapy, counseling and more.

It's important to find a healthcare provider you can feel comfortable with. Co-founders Mark Prondzinski and Lisa Suchy created the wellclicks concept from a specific need: the growing interest in health and wellness services along with a need for quick, personalized connections between consumers and providers.

Wellclicks.com is a matchmaker, not a directory. According to Lisa Suchy, co-founder of wellclicks, "We all have specific needs in a healthcare relationship. Maybe you want to find a female primary care provider with 15 years of experience that specializes in allergies – we help make that connection. You can learn about her credentials, philosophy of care and personal interests on the website. You get to choose what's important to you." The site currently serves the southwest metro and will be expanding to the entire Twin Cities in 2010.
